Greetings from ASFAA-2026!

Ascendix Summit: Food, AgriTech & Animal Science is a premier global platform uniting leaders, innovators, researchers, policymakers, and investors across the food, agriculture, and animal science ecosystems. Scheduled for November 18–20, 2026 in Singapore, the summit will spotlight cutting-edge advancements shaping the future of sustainable food systems and agri-innovation.

ASFAA 2026 brings together a dynamic mix of AgriTech startups, food technology pioneers, animal science experts, and global industry stakeholders to explore transformative solutions in areas such as precision agriculture, alternative proteins, smart farming, animal health, supply chain innovation, and climate-resilient agriculture.

A key highlight of the summit is its strong industrial participation, featuring leading agribusiness companies, food processing industries, animal health enterprises, technology providers, and global corporations. Industry partners will showcase next-generation products, share real-world case studies, and engage in collaborative discussions that bridge the gap between research, innovation, and commercialization.
